RED-WINGED BLACKBIRD.
Over where the bog is freeing
And the willow waves her bloom
There in bridal black quite proper
Dress he love to preen and plume;
Breath of new green things is drifting

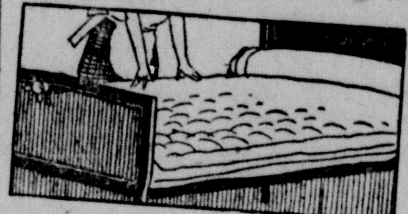

Over the sedges on the breeze;
Mingled with his love-song rising,
Voicing liquid notes like these—
"Conk-err-lee-ee!"
Sweetheart, see!
Sweetheart, see!
The world was made for you and me!"

Dignified beside the water
Walks he as a landed squire,
Spread his wings and ruffs his feathers,
Smooths his shoulder caps of fire,
Then the blue sky bending over,
Or the tinge of green on hill
Fills his lover-heart with rapture,
And again we hear him trill—
"Conk-err-lee-ee!"
Sweetheart, see!
Sweetheart, see!
The world was made for you and me!"

GRACE EVANGELICAL AID TO HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING.
The members of the Aid Society of the Grace Evangelical church will hold a very important business meeting Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the church. Every member is cordially urged to be present.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS.
Worn Blankets.
When a pair of blankets are badly worn and thin in spots, tack the two sides together, cover with silkoline and make into a comforter.

White Spots.
To wash white spots place them on a porcelain table and scrub with a soft brush dipped in a thick lather of white soap. Rinse with clean, warm water and absorb as much of the moisture as possible between the folds of a Turkish towel. Dry over a line and press with an iron that is not too hot.

A Clean Sink.
You will not be troubled with water-bugs around the sink if you pour into it a cup of kerosene oil once a week and wait half an hour before letting the water run down the pipe.

Bluing Stain.
If bluing leaves a stain on a white fabric soak it in strong ammonia water or in kerosene and wash with naphtha soap in lukewarm water.

Old Vegetables.
To freshen old or wilted vegetables soak them in very cold water two or three hours before they are to be cooked.

GIRTON-PARKER.
A quiet wedding occurred Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Amboy, which was a surprise to everyone excepting a very few friends and relatives.

At this time, Miss Goldie Girton became the wife of Charles Parker, the wedding ceremony being pronounced by Rev. M. D. Bailey, the Methodist minister, at the parsonage in Amboy. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Spencer of that city, the later a sister of the bride, were present at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Henry Girton. She is one of the telephone operators at the local exchange, where her obliging courtesies, kindness and pleasantness won her many friends. Her husband is a jolly chap, who is employed in Ashton blacksmithing. The bride will continue her work at the switchboard.

Mr. and Mrs. Parker will reside in the Macbeth residence. May a bright future be theirs, is the wish of their many friends—Franklin Grove Reporter.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY. EGGLESS DESSERTS.

These desserts use no eggs but are delicious and nourishing. They add bulk as well as starch and some fat to the winter dinner.

The cup puddings offer an excellent opportunity to use up small amounts of canned fruits left from various meals. Each pudding may have a different fruit.

The juice from canned fruits can be used for pudding sauces, in party drinks and salad dressings.

Cup Puddings.
One cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, milk to make a soft dough, canned fruit.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in milk with a knife. The dough should be softer than baking powder biscuit dough, but stiff enough to keep its shape when dropped from the spoon. Put one or two tablespoons of canned fruit in the bottom of a well-buttered custard cup. The fruit should be covered with juice. Add a spoonful of the dough and steam half an hour. To steam put the cups in a large pan with a tight-fitting cover, add boiling water to about two-thirds cover the cups and let boil gently. Too much water will boil over into the puddings and spoil them.

Remove puddings from cups and serve warm with sugar and cream.

Eggless Steamed Pudding.
Two tablespoons lard, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup molasses, 1/2 cup milk, 1 cup white flour, two-thirds cup graham flour, 1/4 teaspoon soda, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1/4 cup stoned and chopped dates.

Soften shortening in a warm mix in bowl. Add molasses, milk and dry ingredients well mixed. Stir well and add dates. Mix thoroughly and turn into a buttered mold. Steam

POPULAR IN FLANNEL

The material should be flannel. The color blue or peach. The style, the one pictured here. Combine these three and you have the popular flannel frock. It is seldom that fashion is so reasonable in choosing three such practical and becoming features and combining them.

The skirt is box pleated and the long waisted blouse effect joins the skirt with a narrow hip-band. This is an excellent style for the college girl.

two and one-half hours. Serve with hard sauce, plain lemon sauce or a sauce using the juice of canned fruit.

This recipe makes enough pudding to serve eight persons. The pudding is quite as good reheated and served the second day, so the whole rule can be made for a family of four and used for two meals.

Steamed Apple Pudding.
One and one-half cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup water, 4 tart apples.

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Work in butter with tips of fingers and cut in water with a knife. Put on a floured molding board and roll about one-half inch thick. Spread lightly with softened butter and sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Use about four tablespoons sugar and one teaspoon cinnamon. Pare, quarter, core and slice apples. Put in the center of the dough. Dampen edges of dough slightly and bring together. Press. Put the pudding in a buttered mold, cover and steam one and one-half hours. Serve with sugar and cream or vanilla sauce.

Vanilla Sauce.
One-half cup sugar, 1/4 sugar cup boiling water, 1 dessertspoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon butter, few grains salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix sugar, salt and cornstarch and slowly add water, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Boil five minutes, remove from the fire and stir in butter. Let cool slightly and add vanilla. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

McAdoo Beats Reed in Missouri Fight

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 28.—What anti-Reed democrats in Missouri described as the first setback to Senator J. A. Reed's presidential candidacy was the decision today of the democratic state committee to meet in Springfield for the 1924 state convention, by a 38 to 26 vote. The McAdoo forces assert they have 38 votes on the state committee. Reed supporters, it was said, did not want the convention to go to Springfield.

TROUBLES OF THE BOK PLAN.

Out of the contest for the Bok peace award some serious charges have grown. Among these are: That the judges were prejudiced in favor of some plan that would involve the league of nations; that the league of nations advocates were given special opportunity to place their propaganda in the hands of contestants; that the judges did not read and consider all the manuscripts as it could not have been done in the time taken; that the whole scheme was a part of propaganda designed to get the United States into the league of nations.

When citizens wrote to the award managers for information concerning the conditions of the contest, they received such information from the managers, but also received almost immediately in a separate envelope a letter from "The League of Nations Non-Partisan association" and the "Woman's Pro-League Council," saying that the American peace award had referred the inquirer's name to them as one desiring to compete for the peace prize. These league of nations advocates were anxious to supply data and literature to help in the preparation of manuscripts for submission to the peace award managers. This might be called a close operating arrangement between the managers of the Bok scheme and the league of nations advocates.

BROADCASTERS.

Radio broadcasting stations have 100 million dollars tied up in their equipment and organizations. And they have spent 30 million dollars in the last two years sending out programs. This is the latest trade estimate.

In radio broadcasting there is a big duplication of effort. Experts believe the time is coming when there will be only about six broadcasting stations—possibly just one main station, with substations at strategic points relaying the main concert.

FATHER LIKES RADIO.

Makers of radio apparatus anxiously contemplate the future. The younger generation is pretty well "sold." They have their sets. And, except for improvements, that puts the brakes on sales.

But it looks as if another big radio market will develop during 1924. Father and other members of the older generation have been sitting back watching, awaiting the day when "the thing" will be perfected so I can buy a set without making it or having a lot of fuss tuning in the stations I want."

With the neutrodyne, that day is here. Expect a secondary period of big buying in radio.

HATS CHECKED.

A Chinese restaurant in New York City leases its hat-checking privilege for $12,600 a year. At that, insiders say the concession will pay profits of $10,000 a year.

The usual system is to make the check girls wear tight collars so they can't hide their tips, which usually have to be turned in.

The tipping system is undemocratic, a hang-over from old days, and it will pass out as soon as the public balks. A traveling man estimated that each hat cost him $50 before he wore it out, counting tips.

OLD-TIMER METHODS.

Anthony N. Brady left an estate of 75 million dollars. In life he kept most of his books "in his head," and it cost him only $11,000 a year to look after his property, his son testifies in court. The son seeks relief claiming the requirements of the law have increased this cost to over half a million a year.

Bookkeeping, originally intended as a device to cut expenses, in many cases has become a major factor in the cost of living. There isn't enough money in the world to pay for a "complete" bookkeeping system. The ancient storekeeper who kept his records in a nail keg was wiser than is generally conceded.

LATIN AMERICAN TRADE SUMMARY.

On the basis of the latest official returns our commerce with the Latin Americas for the calendar year 1923 totaled in the neighborhood of $1,800,000,000, or about 24 percent of our trade with all the world. Compared with a decade ago—calendar year 1913—this was an increase of over a billion dollars, or 130 percent, a remarkable stride in the right direction, which is to the south. Trade with Central America increased during this decade from 61 to 97 millions; with the West Indies from 247 to 696 millions; South America, 345 to 744 millions; and Mexico, 130 to 254 millions.

Latin American trade can be developed more largely. Let's go after it.

RICH IN MONEY.

You read that a fortune of 75 million dollars was left by Anthony N. Brady. Now, that's a lot of money, and you wonder who this man Brady was. We don't know, except that he is described broadly as a financier.

You learn something about your country and its distribution of wealth when a man can die leaving 75 million dollars, and unknown to the average man.

SNUFF.

Do you know anyone who uses snuff? Yet 30 million pounds of snuff a year are sold in our country—three times as much as in 1890.

The average person doesn't know a thousandth part of what "goes on" in the United States. Judging from some startling revelations we've had, this is all for the best. The spice of life is in illusion and delusion.

"I'm glad you don't," answered Misses Cross Patch gratefully, "for really I just love to have company in to tea. I never drink it up and then ask in the neighbors. But what is the riddle?"

PIE

BY GERTON BRALEY

The apple of every American eye Is pie.
For rain the spirits and keepin' em high.

Take pie.
From Miami, Fla., to Mackinac, Mich.
Good pie is the berries, a peach of a dish.
A food to meet each epicurean's wish Is pie.

The old people sigh and the little ones cry
For pie.
The kind that you make—not the kind that you buy,
Some pie.

Is punk in its filling and punk in its crust,
And custard by people who never have tussled,
But good home-made pie you can eat till you bust.

That's pie!
A lemon pie's never a lemon to me,
Oh, my!

I scream with delight when a cream pie I see,
That's PIE.
I won't give the raz to a raspberry tart.

I'm not at all chary of cherry; my heart
At coconut pie gives a leap and a start.
What man has the consummate crust to deny

The lure of a rightly made,
Lightly made
Pie?

NEURASTHENIA

Neurasthenia denotes a condition of pathologic fatigue of the entire nervous system. It is sort of nervous exhaustion or undue sensitiveness which by continuation may result in complete nervous prostration. The onset of this trouble usually occurs between 20 and 50.

In younger persons this condition produces such conditions as over-sensitiveness, chorea (st. Vitus' dance) especially in young girls, insomnia and night terrors.

In such attacks, where heridity is partially to blame, the real beginning of mental disease and melancholia is noted.

It is also true where these conditions effect the children that the parents often lack mental control and are subject to frequent attacks of irritability and anger.

The advanced neurasthenic type may be traced to many casual conditions. Injuries are a frequent menace. The nervous condition is almost irremediable in many of those who have gone through some harrowing wreck or accident. Severe mental and physical work, lack of proper rest, improper

YANKS PROTEST BONUS SCORE IN SKATING EVENTS

Kick Is Filed Against Method with International Body.

Chamonix, France, Jan. 29.—(By the Associated Press)—A spirited dispute has developed over the method of scoring points in the Olympic winter sports events.

Before leaving last night, William Taylor, manager of the American speed skating team told the French Olympic Committee he was lodging a protest with the International Olympic Committee and the International Skating Union against the allowance of 25 extra points under the heading "general classification" for men competing in all four skating races as a bonus.

This method of scoring brings the total points to 125 and makes the standing of the nations, according to the French committee's official list: Finland, 62½; Norway, 49½; United States, 11; Sweden, 1 and France, 1.

Mr. Taylor argued that the bonus system was unfair as it gave Charles Jewtraw, who scored ten points for the United States by winning the 500 metre race, no chance to figure in the general classification because he did not participate in the 1000 metre event.

Bird Houses And How To Build Them

V-APARTMENTS

In the fourth article a discussion was begun of the martins and their preference for the apartment plan of houses.

A more intricate type of building for martins is shown in Figure 11. It should not be attempted by anyone who has not a good working knowledge of elementary carpentry. The body of this house slides upon its pole, to the top of which the roof is solidly attached.

The pole is hollow and through it runs a cord by which the house is

By means of this device, sparrows may be kept out until martins are due to arrive. The pole is made of hardwood boards put together with screws. The concrete base has a core of two-inch iron pipe which extends upward far enough to make a firm connection with the upper part on which the house slides. A heavyweight is employed to hold the house firm against the roof.

Figure 12 shows the roof of the house solidly attached to the pole. Figure 13 shows the arrangement and details of construction and operation of the gates. These gates run through all floors. When the house is pushed up against the roof the spring is forced down and the openings in the gates fall opposite the entrances to the house. When lowered, the entrances are blocked by the solid part of the gates.

Coolidge as a means of bringing quicker financial relief to that section than would be possible through formation of a private syndicate of bankers and financiers.

Washington—The house ways and means committee voted a 25 percent reduction on taxes of earned income up to $20,000 and all incomes under $5,000 are classified as earned under this proposed reduction.

New York—Rev. John Roach Stratton at New York won a debate with Rev. Charles Francis Potter on: "Resolved, that the earth and man came by evolution." The score is now tied between the ministers, each having won a debate.

Washington—The house ways and means committee, preparatory to taking up the income rates of the new revenue bill later in the week, considered a proposal to prohibit husbands and wives from dividing their incomes when derived entirely from wages or salaries, for purposes of filing separate tax returns.

St. Paul—Search was being made for Mrs. Charlotte O'Connor, the only person unaccounted for after the fire which destroyed a twelve apartment house forcing more than 30 tenants into the street, and in which six men and women were injured.

Washington—Anti-prohibition forces of the nation followed up their "face the facts" conference by announcing the formation of a joint legislative committee to work for modification of the Volstead Act.

Athens—Scores of persons have been frozen to death in the exceptional cold wave.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 28.—Police were endeavoring to unravel the mystery of the death of Mrs. Laura Hall of Huntington, W. Va., whose body was found Saturday night in an automobile with three men. The discovery was made by a policeman when one of the men inquired the way to the nearest hospital.

The three men, who are being held, have been identified, the authorities said, as the three who staged a hold-up in McKees Rocks, near here Saturday night.

C. G. Jordan of Huntington, W. Va., one of the three, told the police that he accidentally shot Mrs. Hall. The others held are C. L. Moore of Hufricane, W. Va., and E. Lafferty of Huntington.

Mrs. Hall who was 19 years old, had lived apart from her husband.

THE NUT CRACKER

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT THE STYMIE PROBLEM?

MUGGSY McGRAW—I should get alarmed about the stymie after having guys like Bugs Raymond and Casey Stengel around the joint for years.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT—It's a law and should be enforced. Any man who carries a half-filled stymie on his hip is guilty of a crime against the government.

BILL BRYAN—I don't think they ought to monkey with it; there's too much monkey business in the world now.

BULL MONTANA—If it's another of those darned beauty creams take it away. Nothing can help this mug of mine.

BABE RUTH—All I've got to say is that if it comes over the plate and is in the groove, sock it.

TEX RICKARD—I never heard of this stymie guy, but if he's game and can hit I'll match him with Firpo.

HENRY FORD—How far can you make the blamed thing go on a gallon of gas, that's what I want to know?

JOE BECKETT—The stymie's all right with me. I'll fall for anything.

PEGGY JOYCE—Not for a sweet young thing like me. I've seen entirely too much of these foreigners.

SAM GOMPERS—What the stymie needs is an eight-hour working day, improved factory conditions and an increased salary scale.

MAGNUS JOHNSON—Shut! It oughtn't to be hard to raise 'em if you keep the army worm and the bull weevil out.

GENERAL OBREGON—If Coolidge will rush me 3,000,000, hand-picked, house-broken stymies I'll end this here revolt in three days.

AMUSEMENTS

"THE NERVOUS WRECK"

"The Nervous Wreck," in which Taylor Holmes is starred at the Sam H. Harris Theatre, Chicago, is now in its sixth week of its engagement at that house. It has enjoyed record-breaking business ever since it opened in Chicago and there is every indication that its run will be long. It is the sort of farce comedy that makes a broad appeal to the majority of theatre patrons. Mr. Holmes has long been noted as one of the leading farceurs of the American stage and with Vivian Tobin as his vis-a-vis he is given opportunity to score heavily. The story of "The Nervous Wreck" has the Far West as its locale and it tells of a tenderfoot from Pennsylvania who, going into the border country in search of health, becomes more western than the natives. His situations, although extremely complicated are never ludicrous, and every line contains a laugh. "The Nervous Wreck" has been described as a tonic for tired nerves, and while the leading character in this merry comedy is supposedly in search of sunshine—which he eventually finds in the love of a charming girl—the audiences which see this play find their sunshine in laughter.

THIS BRIGHT BABY GIRL

Brought Joy to Home. Mrs. Price's Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scotac, Pa. — "I never felt like working, and when I would try to do any work standing on my feet, I would just drag around all day long. At times I would have terrible pains and would be in bed three or four days. I was in this condition about a year when I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers. I had heard different women say it was good for women's troubles, and my aunt thought it would help me as it had helped her. So I took the Vegetable Compound and it brought things right, and I was in good shape before I became a mother again. I believe it helps at birth, too, as with both my other babies I suffered a great deal more than with this one. I thank you a thousand times for the good your medicine has done me."

—Mrs. ROBERT PRICE, Scotac, via Lockhaven, Pa.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 98 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use.

Radiographs

Doctor Prescribes Radio for Patient

The use of radio receiving sets in hospitals has become fairly common, but it remained for a Massachusetts doctor to prescribe a set for one of the patients he was treating in her own home.

For some time he had been the family physician of two middle aged women living on a rather lonely farm. One of the sisters had been under his care constantly for an obscure condition which seemed to be growing chronic. A consultation of physicians revealed no organic trouble, and the conclusion was reached that the patient's ailment was more mental than physical.

It happened that the doctor was a radio fan, and the thought of a radio set for the patient suggested itself, and he promptly prescribed one.

The price of a complete set, however, seemed prohibitive, so he advised the sisters to build one. They wouldn't have been more surprised if he had asked them to build an airplane. But the doctor loaned them his own set until he could go to town and buy the parts for one for them. He chose a four tube Reflex because of its simplicity of construction and ease of operation. He found that one manufacturer had recently issued a booklet with diagrams showing the apparatus connected into sets of various kinds so simply that it was only a question of placing the parts on a board and connecting them piece by piece as shown in the dummy. As they say in novels, the idea "intrigued" the sisters, and with a little help from the doctor, they built the set, got excellent results right off the bat, and they are rapidly becoming ardent radio fans. Meanwhile the sick sister, forgetting herself and her troubles in her absorption in the set, ceased to be sick and is now well on the way to a perfectly normal condition.

Because of the simplicity of this set and absence of complicated controls, these two women, wholly inexperienced in mechanics or theoretical electricity, are operating the set without the slightest difficulty, listening to stations a thousand miles away, brought in loud, clear, and without distortion on a loud speaker using a loop or inside antenna.

Their set is further simplified by reason of the fact that it operates with dry cell vacuum tubes, one dry cell to each tube, and no storage battery requiring central station current and a rectifier of battery charger, is necessary.

It's a safe bet that if more physicians would prescribe radio sets in similar cases, fewer people would "enjoy poor health."

Underworld Nights

by Alexander Herman
 NEA SERVICE WRITER

No. 2—A GANGSTER'S FEAR

"I WAS FORCED TO TAKE A PLEA."

The names their mothers gave them are soon forgotten in the Underworld, even as are the mothers themselves.

Each man is known by the moniker that best describes his special type of operation. There is Jimmie the Gyp, Stick-up Red, The Slasher, Scratchy Sam, Harry the Dip, and others.

Their real names don't matter, and the names in these stories are pseudonyms. For some day these men may go straight.

The leader of the most powerful New York mob we'll call the Slasher. He inherited the name from his brother, who was the greatest slasher in the business before him.

But when an opposition gang got the brother, the younger member of the family carried on for him.

The present Slasher is a little over 30. He has done eight bits—ranging from a reformatory sentence for a stick-up when he was only 14, to a seven-year stretch for murder.

He is one of the best dead-liners in the game. And he's a power with his fists. He has run the whole gamut of crime.

"But it doesn't pay," he told me confidently. "It doesn't pay. I make an easy dollar now and then—but it goes even easier than it comes."

"And then I have to be on the jump all the time. I have to be on the look-out for the Law and the opposition mobs. I can never tell when I'll be bumped off."

"Not that I'm scared. I fear no one. But I'd hate to go without a fair chance. I'd hate to be framed. Yet that's just what happened—when they charged me with the murder of my best friend.

"I was picked up with others and was forced to take a plea. I did seven years for it. Yet I never committed the crime. But what chance did I have with my record?"

"But the worst of this whole business is that it may happen again—tonight, tomorrow, or the next day."

GANG-TIONARY

Bumped Off—Murdered.
 Dead-End—Crack shot.

Framed—Planted—To be held by the authorities on false evidence.

To Get—To kill.
 To Make an easy dollar—To earn money dishonestly.

Slasher—One who butchers his victims.

To take a plea—To plead guilty to a crime without standing trial.

more Ford cars and trucks were pro- duced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in pro- duction, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor.

Income Tax Data

The following statement is issued by Collector of Internal Revenue of the First District of Illinois, Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke.

In the making of an income tax return for the year 1923, taxpayers of every class, business and professional men, salaried persons, wage earners and farmers should present to themselves for consideration the following questions:

Did you receive any interest on bank deposits?

Have you any property from which you receive rent?

Did you receive any income in the form of dividends or interest from stocks or bonds?

Did you receive any bonuses during the year?

Did you make any profit on the sale of stocks, bonds, etc.?

Did you make any profit on the sale of stocks, bonds, etc.?

Did you act as broker in any transaction for which you received a commission?

Are you interested in any partnership or other firm from which you receive income?

Have you any income from royalties or patents?

Have you any minor children who are working?

Have you control of the earnings of such children? If so, the amount must be included in the parent's return of income.

Has your wife any income from any source whatever? If so, it must be included in your return, or reported in a separate return of income.

Did you receive any directors' fees or trustees' fees in the course of the year?

Did you hold any office in a benefit society from which you received income?

Answers to these questions are necessary in the filing of a correct income tax return.

If single, (or married and not living with wife) and the net income was $1000 or more, or the gross income $2000 or more, or if married and living with wife and the couple's net income was $2000 or more, or the gross income was $5000 or more, a return is required. The fact that the income may not be taxed by reason of the personal exemptions—$1000 for single persons, $2500 for married persons whose net income was $5000, or less, and $2000 for married persons whose net income was in excess of $5000 plus the $400 credit for each dependent—does not alter this requirement. 22

The filing period ends at midnight of March 15, 1924. Forms for filing

Some time ago Mr. George was asked by an interviewer: "What is your favorite amusement?" The novelist replied: "Reading about a great city between midnight and dawn." His reason he gave as follows: "At night it is the unexpected happens. The few people about you would be in bed, were it not for some unusual cause, have, purpose of crime, agony of apprehension, or black poverty. Lonely under the stars, these people seek for company; they willingly confide in you; and even enlist you in their schemes." Thus Mr. W. L. George has wandered hundreds of nights in London, Paris, Barcelona, New York, Chicago, etc. He has participated in several exciting adventures, which he relates here, after the names and details for the sake of his strange companions of the night. Three of these adventures actually happened to Mr. George; three are slightly amended. They make up the picture of darkness and passion which stands behind the face of every great city, and represents a hidden world into which the daring can penetrate.

THE POISONED GIRL

ONCE again a summer night and a sky spangled with stars. Under such skies adventure is common, because lovers, murderers, thieves, all feel the lure of warmth. It was one such night in the morning; I had been there before, only an hour. I wandered a while in Baywater, where little happens, along Edgeware Road, where adventure is somewhat rare. Now I was slowly crossing Mayfair, stopping in Upper Brook Street to listen to the strains of a string quartet, which one occasionally hear through the conversation of two hundred people hung on when a meeting, then I passed into Grosvenor Square, waited for a moment, observing the taxis, sometimes glimpsing their freight; once there flashed past me, thus, a pink evening frock neatly surrounded by the black arm of a dinner jacket. I was just going to pass on, when across the square, in the center of the square, I perceived a figure, all in white, which stood there motionless. By staring intently I found that it was a woman in an evening frock, hatless, who was holding on to the railings by one hand, while the other arm hung motionless.

I was surprised. Grosvenor Square is a bad place for a meeting, except perhaps for a housemaid. The housemaid's mistress, equally adventurous but more prudent, would hardly make an appointment against the railings of Grosvenor Square. I watched the woman for at least two minutes, during which she did not move at all. When I observed that she was not going to move, I moved on, and in five or six yards away stood a man in an evening dress, a light coat over his arm, a glass on his head. My interest became keen. Who were these partners in a silent drama?

As I crossed the square the woman's attitude did not change. She was not alone; that is to say, five or six yards away stood a man in an evening dress, a light coat over his arm, a glass on his head. My interest became keen. Who were these partners in a silent drama?

fingers from the railing. She struggled with me then and suddenly said: "Go away. I want to die. I've taken poison."

"Poison?" I cried. "What poison?" She did not reply, but now I could connect her dreamy state with one of the soporifics: laudanum, or cocaine, morphia perhaps. "Quick!" I said to the man, "hurry up. We've got to find a cab and get her to a hospital." The girl no longer struggled, but had fallen back against me, obviously stupefied. After a moment's hesitation, the man lumbered across the square. I followed him, holding up the girl. The man halted a passing taxi, feebly and in vain. Finally another taxi took pity on us and stopped.

"Middlesex Hospital!" I said to the driver. The fat man was quite close to us, and as I helped the girl in I could not help saying to him: "Look here, you were there before I was. Why didn't you do anything?"

"Oh, well," said the man, giggling a bit, "I was just minding my own business. I didn't want to get mixed up."

Well, I was properly mixed up, speeding in a taxi toward a hospital with an entirely unknown, beautiful girl, attempting to sleep. I fought her, she fought me, and I succeeded in her fatal embrace. And I succeeded, for she cried out, struggling, tried to jump out of the cab. She was very close to me, and . . . in my arms. I am ashamed to own it, but at that moment, pity her as I might, fear for her as I did, I could not help being affected by her grace; she was so beautiful, so delicate, so given to deeds of heroism, but I say that it was heroic of me not to kiss the sweet red lips which lay so close to mine. And yet . . . human nature is merely human. . . . It is a good thing that from Grosvenor Square to the Middlesex Hospital the distance is short.

I CALLED at the hospital next morning, a little before eight o'clock. I had some difficulty with the porter, who refused to recognize me as having brought anybody there the night before. Finally, interviews with the secretary and the registrar, I was led into a ward by a bored nurse, whose attitude suggested that here were lots of women, and that I might pick out one that I fancied. She went away immediately, leaving me by the side of one who was no longer a sleeping beauty. The beautiful black hair was plaited; she was listless; there were lines of fatigue upon her face, but it was entrancing at last to see her eyes, soft, very deep brown eyes. A white hand lay outside the coverlet. I ventured to take it.

"Who are you?" she asked. I told her my name. "Well, I don't know you."

"Oh, yes, you do. I'm the man who found you last night against the railings, and brought you here."

She reflected. "Yes, I remember somebody now." Then, in the same voice: "What did you do it for?"

"I couldn't leave you there to die."

"Why not? Am I not entitled to die if I like?" I did not reply; to die is certainly a human right. She went on: "Of course, it's always the same thing. One never gets what one wants." Her voice rose: "Oh, why didn't you leave me there? I should have been the luckiest to try again."

While I was trying to console her, the Sister in charge, who was crossing the ward, came to us, and with brisk optimism which her profession cultivates, remarked: "Well, young lady, and how are we doing now?"

As there was no reply from the patient, the Sister turned to me and said: "It's been a narrow squeak, but she'll be all right now. As soon as we get her, we gave her a little dose of amorphine; we washed her out with a salt solution. Then three cups of hot black coffee, and there you are." The Sister beamed upon her good work, and added: "By the way, since you've done it, wouldn't you like to tell me your name and address?"

"He was prepared."

"He—my dear, it's no use for you to look at those hats. I haven't more than a dollar in my pocket."

She—You might have known when we came out that I'd want to buy a few things."

He—I did.—Boston Transcript.

LETTER FROM RICHARD SUMMERS TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

MY DEAR BEATRICE:

I confess I expected to receive some sort of a letter in Chicago but I hardly expected the one which you wrote me.

In the first place, Bee, I resent very much the opinion you have of Paula Perier. One would think she was a modern vamp going about annexing all men she met.

She is nothing of the kind. She is only a little woman who has had a great deal of trouble, although she tells no one of it. She has not even told me, but sometimes when she thinks that not even I am serving her, her face is particularly sad. No one could picture suffering as she does if she had agonized.

I cannot help telling you, Bee, that we seem to have grown a great ways apart in the last three months. I do not think I am wholly to blame, although I am sure it would never do to take you to Hollywood as my wife.

We thought we loved each other, Bee, and because of that we came very near making a great mistake. Don't jump at the conclusion that I am in love with Paula. I am very fond of her, yes, but even if I loved her devotedly I do not think she would return it in any way.

Perhaps that is one of the great charms of Miss Perier. Men always desire the unattainable. She seems to be so sure of herself. No man in Hollywood can say that Paula Perier has given him more than a passing glance and she has had for one reason or other nearly all the men in Hollywood at her feet.

I would have liked to have you meet her, Bee. Strange as it may seem I would have liked your opinion of her.

I know you are smiling as you read this, but you must remember you and I have been friends ever since we have been children and I value your opinion and judgment perhaps more than that of any other person. I know your opinion of me at the present moment is not particularly pleasant and perhaps it

Years have come and gone, with wars, panics and periods of depression, yet when the test of safety has been applied, the interests of customers of this bank have always been carefully guarded and protected both in the care of their funds and the sound advice given to them concerning investments. There is no need to worry about market conditions when your funds are deposited in this bank. FORMER DANSUESE OF DIXON GIVEN MAGAZINE SPACE

Mrs. Wilhelmine Kahler
Has Story in Kansas City Paper.

A magazine from Kansas City, the "Point of View," a magazine on travel, interior decorating, art, etc., has the following article in regard to a former Dixon woman, Mrs. Wilhelmine Kahler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seyfarth, accompanied by a picture of Mrs. Kahler in a lovely old fashioned dancing frock and one of those small almond shaped hats with black velvet streamers. Before leaving Dixon, Mrs. Kahler, always a most graceful and accomplished dancer, and an instructor of much success in the terpsichorean art, had a large class here, going from here to Kansas City where she has been most successful. The following article appears under her name in the magazine, "Keeping Step to Music."

The difference between a mere and a finished dancer is this—a finished dancer acknowledges that the count means everything. He doesn't feel foolish in the process of learning to count while he steps the new dance off—he knows that without the count he is hopeless. But how few men or women either, unless they have been educated in this art of dancing, understand a count or will bother with it. I have had many say to me, "Why I am a dancer there is very little along the dancing line that I can't do—I don't need the count, that is for beginners only."

Why is it that a very large percentage of people on any ball room floor when the beautiful strains of a waltz are played will persist in two-stepping, simply that their education in dancing has been neglected and they have neglected to count.

The Greeks knew the value and the beauty of a step at a time, and taught it to their children.

Style plays a very great part in the dance. It is a most important factor and the finishing touch of all dancing.

It is something to be considered when we are procuring a teacher for our children. All children are prone to mimic, therefore let the teacher whom we choose be a pleasing personality with charm sufficient to hold the love and attention of her class.

There is nothing quite so beautiful as the sight of a number of little children dancing in perfect time to music. The joy in their little faces shows their love for the art, for art is and nothing else.

Did you ever attend the opening of a school of dancing for children? If not you have missed something really worth while. Each little pupil greets the teacher and presents the little friend if he or she brings one. This introduction is one of the prettiest acts of courtesy I have ever witnessed in a child, and something the child does not readily forget. For instance, a pupil from such a school, a little girl, aged five, took her grandmother by the hand and, leading her to a lady with whom she had become acquainted said: Mrs. S., allow me to present my grandmother, Mrs. B." I had witnessed the introduction and inquired about the child, finding she was a pupil of a certain well-known dancing teacher. The utter lack of self-consciousness in the child proved she had been well trained. Boy pupils manifested the same training. Their manner of inviting the little maids to dance, the way they escorted them to and from their seats, was so gentlemanly that it was a perfect treat to watch them. No rudeness was allowed, they were taught to be ladies and gentlemen, and in after life you may depend upon it, this manner and the assurance given them by this teaching proves a wonderful asset.

A boy or girl who is taught to dance by right methods loses all awkwardness as assumed a grace foreign to those who have never been taught. Watch the new pupil and compare him with those who have been trained and you can see the difference. One is awkward and shy, the other has grace and assurance.

The exercise of dancing is healthful, as well as enjoyable. The dancing school is the school to which the children look forward with the greatest amount of pleasure, and the little ones who are denied this beautiful art are truly to be pitied. The girl or boy who goes through life without this training is badly handicapped when it comes to social activities.

A young girl, whose mother objected to her taking dancing lessons, said: "Well, mother, you want me to go to college, but if I go and don't know how to dance, I'll never have an invitation to anything. Guess I'll stay home."

The mother capitulated. Let the young folks learn to dance. Dance the Tango, the loveliest of all the dances, and the dance that is the rage in all the best society in Paris, London, New York, Chicago, and other cities, where good teachers are found who can teach it. The jazz is dying out. The new music is sweeter and lovelier, not chaotic sounds that are discordant and annoying to a sensitive ear. The move is being made to do away with the old music hall type, if through no other means than the name. Why not give the less fortunate the same chance with the well-known name for their dancing places. "The Ball Room" is so much better sounding, and I am sure, would add a lot toward making for the beautiful, even in a public gathering.

Take the Parisienne Tango, that lovely dance to beautiful music—this dance has taken years to bring out its beauty and symmetry, not quite so difficult as the old tango, but really more beautiful. Other new dances this year are: Rhythmic Trot, Nuge One Step, Marion Trot, Duryea Trot and Waltz.

McAdoo Delegate in Every District in Illinois is Desire

Chicago, Jan. 28.—W. L. O'Connell, McAdoo manager for Illinois, sent word to his lieutenants in every congressional district to prepare to enter McAdoo delegates for seats in the democratic national convention.

"The McAdoo organization is committed to the proposition of giving the voters of the party the right to express their preference by direct vote," said his letter.

"The action of the so-called advisory convention in advising the party voters to support certain candidates for all state offices and at the same time taking no action on Presidential candidates, seems to us inconsistent and indefensible."

Chicago's Victory in Wisconsin Contest Changes Line-up.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—General scramble for the Big Ten basketball title appears likely after Chicago's victory over Wisconsin and the close call from defeat Michigan had against Minnesota.

The Wolverines are holding down first place with three victories and no defeats. The 32 to 31 win over Minnesota stands until Feb. 9 when Michigan meets Chicago.

Wisconsin, knocked out of first position by Chicago now rests with the Maroons and Purdue in second. The Badgers were defeated by Chicago 35-11.

The standing:	Won	Lost
Michigan	3	0
Wisconsin	3	1
Chicago	3	1

Many Difficulties Are Encountered in Tutankhamun's Tomb

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—A visit to Tutankhamun's tomb today showed the growing difficulty Howard Carter has to contend with in dismantling the four golden shrines within which lies the sarcophagus of the Pharaoh. As the work proceeds in the narrow tomb, erection of the scaffolding becomes more complicated and the problem of sealing up each of the various component parts more difficult.

The third casket, the sides of which are beautifully decorated with figures in light relief on gold, now are fully visible save for the top which is covered with scaffolding.

Christian's Place on Federal Board is Held Up in Senate

Washington, Jan. 28.—Action on the nomination of George B. Christian, Jr., former secretary to President Harding, to be a member of the Federal Trade Commission was postponed today by the senate Interstate Commerce Committee for two weeks. Members said no opposition as to qualifications was voiced. They declared the postponement was due to a desire to permit farm organizations to express views on a suitable appointee.

The present authorized strength of the United States marine corps is 1093 officers, 114 warrant officers and 27,400 enlisted men.
